The interview

Questions Alyssa Brandon

Alyssa How did you begin painting?

Lee Price For as long as I can remember I've been drawn to making art. Even in kindergarten I knew that I wanted to grow up and do something in that field. My mother was a high school art teacher and I'm sure that had some influence on me. I started art school as an illustration major then switched to painting after the first year. I've been painting ever since.

AB What materials do you use and why?

Lee Price I use oil paint and rarely any medium. I like the thickness of the straight paint. On occasion I use a touch of linseed, primarily if I'm glazing (which lately, is almost never). I work on primed linen. I've been asked why I use oil paint before and I can't come up with a better answer than I just wouldn't think to use anything else.

AB How would you describe your work?

Lee Price My paintings are self-portraits. In most of my paintings, what I want to get across is a sense of distraction. How we grasp for things that distract us from being present when the present is too uncomfortable for us to sit with. How this "checking out" (or compulsion) often creates more harm than if we had just sat with the discomfort in the first place. I think the best ones show not only the negative aspects of this behavior but also the comfort that's found in doing it...
